AN ICONIC LANDMARK DEEPLY ROOTED IN THE TOWN'S HISTORY, THE FACTORY AT FRANKLIN IS A LOCAL TREASURE BELOVED BY ITS COMMUNITY AND ITS PATRONS, OLD AND NEW

Originally a cast iron stove works factory built in 1929, the Factory at Franklin is undergoing extensive renovations to restore its historic charm and bring about a vibrant transformation. Under new ownership by Holladay Properties, the goal is to create a premier destination, offering a unique blend of retail, dining, and cultural experiences for Franklin and its visitors.

The renovated Factory features a captivating grand hall, anchored by the beautiful, lively Skylight Bar, alongside a selection of diverse restaurants, including beloved local eateries like Edley's, Otaku Ramen, Jeni's Ice Cream, Mojo Tacos, and more.

With its iconic landmarks, such as the water tower and smokestack, the Factory boasts an abundance of park-like green spaces. Sidewalks connect the property to downtown Franklin, creating an unmatched walkable and bikeable shopping district.

Additionally, the Factory continues to serve as an events destination, providing nearly 30,000 square feet of venue space. It also houses a premier office hub, with approximately 80,000 square feet of authentic creative office space.

In all, the Factory at Franklin provides a unique and vibrant experience, seamlessly blending its historic character with modern amenities, making it a must-visit destination for both locals and tourists alike.

ABOUT THE OWNER

Established in 1952, Holladay Properties expanded from residential development to commercial buildings and land development in the Midwest. After a split in 1999, the Washington, D.C. office became Holladay Corporation while the Midwest operations became Holladay Properties.

Today, Holladay Properties is a fully integrated commercial real estate company specializing in land development, design/build services, and medical office management. With over 20 million square feet of commercial space developed in the Midwest and a team of 240 specialists across multiple offices, Holladay Properties handles diverse projects while maintaining their values.

Recently, Holladay Properties acquired the Factory, aiming to create an unparalleled shopping, dining, and cultural experience in Franklin. The acquisition strengthens their presence and contributes to their vision of transforming the space for the benefit of the city.
